INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS IMMERSION PROGRAM 2017

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

The International Business Immersion Program (IBIP) selects premier undergraduate students to work in high-performance, interdisciplinary teams to explore the structure and challenges of the global agriculture and food industry. The primary goal of the program is to prepare the next generation of globally literate entrepreneurial leaders to identify and respond to challenges associated with business operations in the global marketplace. While IBIP resides in the College of Agricultural, Consumer and Environmental Sciences and is cross-listed in the College of Business, students selected come from diverse backgrounds, majors and interests.

The program combines an on-campus preparatory course each spring, culminating in an international experiential study tour that allows students to interact with industry professionals and witness the scope of the agriculture and food industry first-hand. Since 2001, the International Business Immersion Program has been shaping exceptional young leaders through research, networking and experience to prepare them to hit the real world running.

COURSE FORMAT

The International Business Immersion Program (New Zealand) consists of three inseparable components:

1. A preparatory course held during the spring semester of 2017, Mondays 3:00 – 4:50 pm
2. A 15-day immersion study tour (May 13-27, 2017) to New Zealand, where participants interact with company executives of national and multinational firms, farmers, regulators, expatriates, and consumers.
3. A mandatory 8-week course (tentatively Wednesdays, 2:30-4:50 pm) during the fall semester of 2017 for final project development, including written documentation, a video editing short course, and audio-visual productions of research findings, normally presented in a public setting in conjunction with the ACES Career Fair, October 5th 2017.

COURSE MATERIALS

Case studies used in this class are from HBS Publishing and the New Zealand Merino Company. Other readings, assignments, and information are provided on the course's Compass website. Additional information may be found on the IBIP website: ace.illinois.edu/ibip

EVALUATION OF COURSE PERFORMANCE

Student performance is based on a combination of assignments and experiences, including case assignments, cultural blogs, news article reviews, group contracts, video interviews, written research reports, presentations, travel blogs, reflection papers, storyboards, video documentaries, written articles, and participation.
LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT EXPECTATIONS

Attendance policy:
You are entitled to one unexcused absence. Nevertheless, you are responsible for turning in your assignments on time. The unexcused absence cannot be used on the risk management session, your presentations sessions, and any field visits in the US or abroad. Absence from scheduled field visits in the USA will only be excused for acceptable reasons, e.g. prior commitments related to your academic program. Absence from field visits abroad will only be justified in cases of serious illness or emergency. If you have to miss more sessions, email ahead of time justifying your absence. For each unjustified absence, there will be a 2% (20-point) deduction.

Peer group evaluation:
One of the goals of this class is to replicate how work in the real world takes place. Therefore, working in a group is an important component of the IBIP experience. We do acknowledge that the level of effort across group members can vary and will adjust grades from group projects accordingly. We will distribute forms that allow you to submit group grades separately for each of the following group projects: written research report, magazine article, and video project.

Participation:
The participation grade is based on behavior and performance inside of the classroom, during our field trips, and on the study tour. This includes—but is not limited to—being on time, being alert during presentations, and asking our guest speakers and hosts insightful questions.

The 3Ps of class conduct will be followed in IBIP: Preparation, Participation, and Promptness. These same factors will be important drivers of success throughout your career, beginning with your search for internships and jobs.

Preparation: Come to each class prepared to ask questions and discuss topics with the guest speakers.

Participation: Participation is crucial. A portion of your grade will be based on attendance, participation, and willingness to speak with and in front of your peers. Presence is not a sufficient condition for participation. You must be active in asking questions and expressing views. The reason for this policy is that we want you to take full advantage of the opportunity to interact with professionals and develop communication skills. Practice makes perfect.

Promptness: One attribute of a successful professional is timeliness. Late arrival to class is disruptive and rude to guests and reflects poorly on the entire class and the university. If you have a difficult time getting to class, please make arrangements with the instructors in advance.

Mr. Richard Vogen is the Instructor for the International Business Immersion Program in the Department of Agricultural and Consumer Economics (ACE) at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. He also serves on the executive administrative team of the College of Agricultural, Consumer and Environmental Sciences, as the Director of Planning and Resource Development. Before joining the university in 1999, Mr. Vogen had more than twenty years of experience in international market development for U.S. food and agricultural products, in both public and private sector organizations. He earned his undergraduate degree in agricultural science, a graduate degree in animal sciences, and an MBA, all from the University of Illinois. Mr. Vogen’s wife, Mrs. Brenda Vogen, is also accompanying the study tour as a chaperon.

Ms. Anna Fairbairn is a M.Sc. student in Agricultural and Applied Economics at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign and a research fellow with the International Institute of Tropical Agriculture. Her research investigates the quality of mineral fertilizer in the Morogoro region of Tanzania and is supported by the Borlaug Global Food Security Graduate Fellowship. Anna completed her bachelor’s degree at the University of Illinois in Political Science and African Studies and, prior to attending graduate school, started her career working at the University of Illinois Study Abroad Office. After graduation, Anna hopes to obtain her doctorate and pursue a research-oriented career in conducting impact evaluations within the realms of technology adoption, food security and poverty reduction.

Wade hails from the small town of Macon, Illinois, which led him to pursue a degree in agricultural and consumer economics, with a concentration in consumer economics and finance. While at the University of Illinois, he has been training to become an officer in the United States Air Force. Wade hopes to serve his country as a fighter pilot.

Leyton grew up on a family grain farm in Central Illinois and studies technical systems management. He is extremely interested in precision agriculture and wants to play a role in the advancement of the agriculture industry by minimizing inefficiencies during the planting and harvesting of crops.

Lauren is from Springfield, Illinois and studies accounting. Lauren holds an executive board position with her sorority, Gamma Phi Beta and in her free time she likes to cheer on the Fighting Illini at sporting events. Lauren aspires to obtain her master’s in accountancy and become a Certified Public Accountant at a public accounting firm.

Jenna is from Homer, Illinois and was first exposed to agriculture as a child visiting her grandparents’ farm. She studies agricultural and consumer economics with a concentration in agribusiness, markets, and management, and enjoys being involved with the College of ACES, working at the YMCA, and studying abroad. In the future, she hopes to work for an agricultural company in a management or sales position and see as much of the world as possible.
Abrielle hails from the suburbs of Chicago and developed a passion for agriculture after working at an urban farm during high school. As a student in agricultural and consumer economics, she is very interested in environmental economics and public policy. Outside of the classroom, she is a member of the University of Illinois Marching Illini, where she plays on the drumline; and is a part of the music fraternity, Sigma Alpha Iota-Sigma Delta Chapter.
